Bonjour Startup Montréal announces a delegation of 145 key players to represent the Montreal startup ecosystem at Collision 2019 in Toronto

MONTREAL, May 14, 2019 - Bonjour Startup Montréal has put together a delegation of 145 key players to represent the Montreal startup ecosystem in Toronto for the Collision 2019 conference. It is one of the largest delegations ever sent to an international event by the Montreal startup ecosystem, and the first delegation organized by Bonjour Startup Montréal.

The Montreal delegation will be heading to Toronto on May 21st to participate to Collision 2019 and several other exclusive activities for delegates, including a breakfast with Export Quebec at the Bureau du Québec à Toronto.

Since its launch last January, Bonjour Startup Montréal has implemented several initiatives facilitating collaboration between the various key players in the Montreal startup community, and has ensured the creation of many opportunities for local entrepreneurs. This announcement consolidates the efforts of the past few months and is another opportunity for Montreal startups to shine here and abroad.

"The whole team is working extremely hard to set up activities and offer exceptional opportunities for Montreal startups. We are delighted by the positive response this project has received from the Montreal community. This is a good testimony that in only a few months of existence, we have been able to rally the key players to our mission," says Nancy Gemme, Director of Bonjour Startup Montréal.

On the occasion of this announcement, Bonjour Startup Montréal invites Montreal startups to join a Slack communication channel created to facilitate exchanges and highlight more business opportunities for Montreal's startup community. Visit www.bonjourstartupmtl.ca/slack for more details.
